S-9

Sierra Nevada Brewing Company opened their new Mills River Taproom and Restaurant in March 2015, featuring over 2,200 square feet of Banker Wire mesh in a variety of applications. The most prominent use of the S-9 woven wire mesh is in the ceiling. For a fun and quirky touch, signs using additional wire mesh were produced and placed around the taproom.

The mid-fill weave of S-9 in T304 stainless steel proved to be the perfect choice for the hallway ceiling panels. The mesh is an architecturally stunning element that offers sustainability and durability, echoing the company's high quality standards. Banker Wire only uses the finest quality stainless steel wire, and strives for flawless physical consistencies and surface luster in its wire mesh.

"We find Banker Wire to be an excellent solution for so many different design challenges," says Matt Gallaway, principal architect at Russell Gallaway Associates. "The unsurpassed quality at a reasonable price shows how dedicated the company is to serving its customers. I had never specified Banker Wire in a project prior to the Mills River Taproom, but have used it multiple times since."
